Description

Set in an historic small town, nestled at the base of the Blue Mountains and surrounded by fertile farmlands and breathtaking mountain wilderness, Eastern Oregon University is a great place to work. A member of the Oregon University System, Eastern Oregon is committed to students with roots in the intermountain rural West.

A small intimate academic community, Eastern Oregon was ranked number two in the nation by Consumers Digest magazine as "Best Value for Public Colleges and Universities". With only two thousand students on campus, small intimate classes, and 350 faculty and staff who are passionate about undergraduate education and serving our rural region, EOU is a very special place.

The University guides student inquiry through integrated, high-quality liberal arts and professional programs, including: 23 bachelor's degrees and partnership programs offering two bachelor's degrees in nursing and five bachelor's degrees in agriculture; more than 40 different minors; multiple pre-professional programs; and three master's degrees in business, teaching and science in education. Moreover, EOU is recognized as a national leader in distance education, offering extended opportunities for over two thousand additional students at 16 centers throughout the state and beyond.

Working in an environment where ideas are important, where critical thinking and collaboration are valued, can be exciting and rewarding and challenging. At EOU, you'll work with bright, diverse, and dedicated people, all of whom share a deeply personal commitment to advance and sustain a very special learning environment.

Eastern Oregon University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and educator, committed to building a diverse and inclusive community and learning environment. Making excellence inclusive is a key element of the University's strategic plan. This strategic goal includes the following supportive aims:

- The recruitment and retention of students representative of the demographics of Eastern Oregon and the region, with special attention to underrepresented groups.
- Providing resources (financial aid, work, advising, and curriculum) to all students to ensure access to college.
- Ensuring diverse, equitable, and inclusive student, faculty, and staff participation.
- Striving to make the educational experience inclusive through curricular and co-curricular innovation.
